

I am in complete opposition to the use of cellular phones aboard aircraft. As a former flight attendant, the use of cell phones would create a very hostile environment. The noise level aboard airplanes would create stress among the passengers. Imagine an emergency where there are passengers on their phones and no one can hear the instructions of the crew! Hijackers making extensive contact although not seated together....on board navigation interference (lets not find out the hard way) I could go on and on...BAD IDEA! Sincerely...Kelly Schauls
